SFU Childcare Society is hosting an Early Childhood Educator conference focused on providing in-depth learning experiences for infants and toddlers.

With facilitators Margie Carter and Deb Curtis, you will be supported to grow as a teacher researcher, with inspiration from the Reggio Emilia approach and pedagogical documentation on real-life encounters with children. Together we will consider research from recent insights in early years neuroscience and sensory motor development.

Collaboration is essential for teacher researchers, and we encourage you to attend with another member of your centre. You will be working at tables in “communities of practice” with a facilitator who teaches at SFU Childcare Society.

SFU Childcare Society is well-known in the ECE community for its quality programming in a beautiful natural setting on Burnaby mountain; SFUCCS operates 7 Infant/Toddler programs from a total of 15 childcare programs. A tour of our facilities is available as part of the conference.

MARGIE CARTER has been a preschool and kindergarten teacher, a child care director and college faculty. Margie is the producer of a number of early childhood training videos and has co-authored seven books with Deb Curtis. You will find her regular training column in Child CareExchange.

DEB CURTIS has been in the field of early childhood education for a very long time in a variety of settings as a teacher of children and adults. Her ongoing passions involve collecting materials and creating environments that invite complex learning and marveling about infants and toddlers with their teachers and families.
